Discover...the ACA programme

At Moore Stephens we offer graduates the opportunity to join the firm as an associate, securing a 36 month training contract with full study support towards completing the ICAEW ACA (Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales, Association of Chartered Accountants) professional qualification. We have an intake every September and January, with graduates primarily joining our London, Birmingham and Reading offices.

In addition to a competitive salary and flexible benefits we also cover all the first time costs for your tuition and exams, including time out of the office to attend college, and provide a bespoke internal trainee development programme (TDP) to maximise your personal and technical skills.

The ACA itself is split into three levels, certificate, professional and advanced, and we’ve put together a structured exam pathway to give our associates the best opportunity to succeed.

Within the ACA programme you would gain a breadth of experience working across our varied client base (see pages 24-25) which, once you’ve qualified, means you can make an informed decision about where you specialise. Throughout the programme we also encourage you to have conversations about your career pathway (pages 22-23), including linking in across the firm to take advantage of internal secondment opportunities with our diverse range of service lines (pages 8-9).
As an ACA associate you could join our audit stream, or our business tax or private client tax service lines. Discover which department you should join using our skills match tool below, and have a look at page 11 to find out more about what your specific role could entail.
Discover...graduate opportunities

Now you’ve taken our skills match quiz (page 8), and found out which department you would suit, find out more about what your day-to-day role would involve.

Business tax
You will be providing bespoke tax services to clients and dealing with queries from compliance through to high-level advisory work. You will prepare tax returns and computations, carry out tax planning/consultancy work, and deal with HMRC, clients and third parties.

Corporate audit
In this department you will need an analytical mind as you join a pool of trainees working with managers and partners to provide audit and accounting services to a broad range of clients. You will work with businesses in a variety of sectors, from financial services to technology companies and sports clubs.

International institutions and donor assurance
A specialist department that carry out audits of international development aid and other publicly-funded projects all over the world, to ensure donors’ funds are properly used and soundly managed. Major clients include the United Nations and European Commission.

Private client tax
This department assists individuals with all aspects of their financial affairs, from compliance through to complex planning. The key requirement to succeed in this department is being able to communicate technical issues simply.

Public sector audit
You will be involved in the audit of statutory accounts, internal audit and advisory assignments in the central government, local government, health and education sectors within the UK and overseas.

Whichever department you choose the Moore Stephens ACA programme will equip you with the necessary skills and experience to start your career on the right track!
Discover...your first year

An overview of your first year working and studying to become an ACA chartered accountant with Moore Stephens.

Welcome to Moore Stephens!
From day one you'll be getting to know your new colleagues, hearing from representatives around the firm about what we do, and starting our internal Trainee Development Programme (TDP).

Assigned to a buddy
You’ll have a buddy who will show you the important things like where’s good for lunch and how to make a cup of tea! They will be studying for the ACA as well, so can support you in your studies too.

Certificate level begins
Within your first four months you’ll attend college for the six certificate level papers sitting modules two at a time, starting with Accounting and Assurance.

New trainee dinner
During your first week you will be invited to a welcome dinner giving you an opportunity to meet partners and staff from across the firm.

First day in the office
From day one in the office you’ll be completing chargeable work for our clients.

Trainee Development Programme
Our TDP programme, delivered by our internal experts, bridges the gap between what you learn at college and your day-to-day role. It’s an opportunity to network with your intake, and provides a combination of technical and business skills. We also include workshops on exam technique.

Quiz night
A chance to get competitive and show off your general knowledge... or not!

Professional level papers
Within your first year you’ll attend college for, and sit, your first three professional papers.

Opportunity to buddy a new joiner
After a year with the firm it will be your opportunity to buddy a new starter and show someone else the ropes! You will also be supervising smaller jobs.

Dress down Friday
Held every couple of months, we dress casually to raise money for our Charity of the Year!

Summer party
Fingers crossed for sunshine at our annual firm-wide summer party!

Annual development review
Each summer you will participate in the firm’s PDM (personal development meeting) process giving you a chance to discuss your achievements within the last year, and set goals for the next 12 months.

CSR day
All staff are encouraged to use their CSR (corporate social responsibility) day to undertake a charitable task.

One-to-one mentor meetings
You will sit down with your appraising manager every six months to discuss how you’re getting on, where you have been successful and any areas in which you need more support.

Certificate level complete!
After each stint at college you’ll have two-three weeks to revise before sitting your exams. Within four months of joining you’ll have completed the certificate level and will be CFAB qualified.

Hi Grace. Tell us about yourself.

I’ve been part of the audit team in the Reading office for nearly two years. Prior to this, I worked in merchandising at the head office of M&S, having graduated with a degree in Physiology.

What’s your experience of Moore Stephens been so far?

It is a welcoming and friendly firm. I am expected to work hard, but I’m supported by encouraging and down-to-earth colleagues who always make time to offer help and advice. I have been privileged to work on audits in a wide variety of industries including education, technology and even pig-farming!

What’s the social life like?

The Reading office has a close-knit team of ACA trainees. We often make time for pay-day drinks or the occasional team lunch in town. The trainees are part of the Thames Valley Young Professionals networking group, as well as the Thames Valley Chartered Accountant Student Society (TVCASS). These give us the chance to get to know other young professionals in the area, both within the accountancy world and from other professions such as law and banking.

What’s been your best moment?

My best moment was carrying out a stock take at a pig farm in Somerset. I had to arrive at 8am for a delivery of 2,000 piglets, and spent the day counting them off the lorry, with the farmer. This is not something you would imagine the typical ‘accountant’ doing, but certainly a fun experience I’ll never forget!

Discover...our values

We hear from four representatives across the firm to understand how our values are intrinsic to the day-to-day culture and performance of Moore Stephens.

Tim Fussell
Department Head, Business Tax, London
Going home at night knowing I have made a positive contribution either for the benefit of a client, or in my role as department head, is what gives me satisfaction. We cannot be experts in everything, and part of delivering excellence involves identifying the best person for the task. Passing on an opportunity to a colleague better placed to advise than you is a strength and not a sign of weakness.

Karen Rietveld
Director, Learning & Development, London
I have never believed in sitting and waiting for things to happen – I make them happen. I am naturally curious, enjoy finding solutions rather than pondering over problems and trying new ways of working. I find that I have the opportunity to do this in my role at Moore Stephens on a daily basis. In our growing firm, I am motivated by the fact that my ideas are heard and I am supported in making it a reality.

Tejal Davda
Director, Corporate Audit, London
To me, this means to work together as one firm providing a service that is tailored to meet our clients’ needs and enabling us to develop, grow and succeed individually and as a firm. Working with others is an inherent part of my role, ensuring that our teams consist of the right people with the right skillset in order to provide a service that adds value to our clients.

Ryan Southall
Senior Manager, Corporate Audit, Birmingham
I believe that having a strong moral compass is important for individuals personally and also for the firm as a whole. Doing what is right does not always mean doing what is ‘easiest’. In fact, it often means the opposite. This is especially true in my role. In audit it is important for me to always consider the consequences of my actions and act in the best interests of all parties involved.

Discover...CSR & social activities

Moore Stephens is not all about work! We want our staff to get involved with fundraising and encourage developing close relationships with colleagues through various social activities.

CSR
Moore Stephens have a dedicated Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) team who organise a variety of fundraising events for our Charity of the Year. Whether you want to walk from London to Brighton, run 10k, or bring out your daredevil side and walk through fire, we have a fundraising event for everyone!

Social
Moore Stephens is a sociable firm, and in addition to regular after-work drinks, the highlight of the calendar year is the Christmas dinner and dance held at the Grosvenor House Hotel on Park Lane. We also host a summer party, regular pub quizzes and have various sports teams you can get involved in.

Looking forward to a lovely bath tonight. My feet are killing me. But worth every minute!!

Discover... life at Moore Stephens

We speak to current ACA associate Will Tingle in London.

Hi Will. Tell us about yourself.

I’ve been at Moore Stephens for nearly 18 months now. I work in public sector audit (PSA) in the London office and have recently become part-qualified.

What’s your experience of Moore Stephens been so far?

Very positive! I’ve been able to do some great jobs and have had a very varied experience. One of my favourite audit experiences to date includes being involved in a Ministry of Defence audit where we had to count tanks as part of the fixed asset testing. For me this narrowly beats visiting Guildhall Art Gallery to verify the existence of some portraits as part of our audit of City of London Corporation.

What’s the social life like?

The social life is good. It’s nice to have both a trainee year group and department to get involved with. College is a great opportunity to spend time with my year group. The Christmas party at the Grosvenor House Hotel is certainly a highlight, particularly the karaoke that featured afterwards last year.

What’s been your best moment?

I recently became PSA table tennis champion! It was an unforgettable moment which will remain with me forever and justified many months of hard training. I would like to thank my parents for all their support.

International secondments

Once you’re qualified, Moore Stephens offers secondment opportunities for staff with a variety of the member firms in Moore Stephens International. It’s an exciting opportunity to experience new cultures and work environments, whilst continuing to build your professional network.

Alex Baynham swapped London for San Francisco for 6 months. A particular highlight was surviving a drive through snow to Mount Rushmore, South Dakota.

Jessica Hahn moved from a member firm in the US to join the London office. In addition to work she has visited nine countries since being based in the capital!

Zeb Bhatty took an 18-month secondment with Moore Stephens Dubai. While focusing mainly on investment funds, shipping and transport, his work took him across Europe, to Switzerland, Brussels and Rotterdam!

Moore Stephens International is a global accountancy and advisory network, headquartered in London.

Since Moore Stephens London was founded a century ago, the international network has grown to be one of the largest global accounting and consulting groups worldwide.

Discover...myths about accountancy

The top myths about accountancy that we want to break.

I didn’t study accountancy at uni.

No problem! We are looking to recruit graduates from all disciplines as we recognise how valuable the skills gained from studying other subjects can be. We currently have graduates from sciences and humanities subjects to name a few, and after the first four months, once you’ve completed the certificate papers, there’s no difference between someone who studied accounting and someone who didn’t.

Why’s it so great working for a mid-tier firm?

By joining Moore Stephens, as a mid-tier firm, you’ll be able to work on a more diverse portfolio of clients, you’ll get earlier responsibility, you’ll have a better work life balance and you’ll also have more opportunities to interact and learn from partners. You’ll also receive more recognition for your achievements, and can have a personal impact on the vision of the firm.

The exams sound hard.

Yes, they are. They will challenge you and you will need to be committed, focused and organised, but as long as you’re willing to put the time in it’s worth it when you qualify and can call yourself a chartered accountant at Moore Stephens. We also go over and above to give you support with teaching from our expert internal trainers, regular meetings with your appraising manager, access to our internal Learning & Development team, and an assigned buddy who will also be studying for the ACA so will be able to provide valuable advice and support.

Accountancy is all about maths.

Not true! Of course there is maths involved and you will need to have a general aptitude, but more importantly we are looking for switched on people, who are confident communicators with the ability to solve problems. Once you pass the exams accountancy is more about building relationships than doing maths.

Is accountancy exciting?

Absolutely, we have clients who vary from one-man owner managed businesses to large corporations, across a huge range of sectors from energy & renewables, sports & leisure and technology. Your role will involve visiting these businesses in small teams, and learning about how our clients and their companies tick. Sounds pretty exciting to us!
Assessment centres are normally held in April and June, and are an opportunity for you to learn more about the firm and the department you’re looking to join, as well as demonstrate your strengths to us. Our assessment centres include:

- Presentations about the firm, the qualifications and training contract.
- An interview with a partner or manager.
- A tour of our offices.
- Two assessments; and an opportunity to meet current trainees.

Remember, assessment centres are a great opportunity for you to learn more about us, as well as the other way round, so come prepared with your questions!

Outcome

We know you’ll be keen to learn the outcome, so we aim to inform you of the results within a week of meeting us at the Assessment Centre.
